To whom it may concern It is my opinion that the antitrust suit brought against the Microsoft Corporation is unfair. I fear it is motivated by business interestes rather than the interests of the consumer - which is why antitrust laws were created. I ve worked for 2 years in the Internet industry where I ve learned firsthand why Microsoft dominates the various markets it competes in - their products are superior to the competition. In our society a superior product is rewarded with profit. Please do not penalize a company that makes quality products because of anti-big business propaganda born in the Public Relations departments of Microsoft s jealous competitors. Thank you. Scott
